

Captain's Drills

35 micro-prompts. 90 seconds each. Skip without guilt.

The drill is the rep, not the workout. Run one per day if it serves you. Sundays are sabbath — drill off.

Foundations

1. Ask Claude: "What's the one assumption I'm making about AI that's probably wrong?"
2. Rewrite your worst prompt of last week — the one you're embarrassed about.
3. Read Proverbs 3:5–6 aloud. Ask Claude what it would do with that verse. Notice the difference.
4. Open three models with the same question. Compare. Pick the one that earned its keep.
5. Time yourself: how long does it take you to get a useful answer? Cut it in half tomorrow.
6. Ask AI to roast your tool stack. Take the criticism that lands; ignore the rest.
7. Sabbath. Drill off.

Personal OS

8. Run your morning anchor prompt. Adjust one input.
9. Voice-memo your evening review. Whisper it. Read it tomorrow.
10. Triage one folder of email with Cowork. Draft only — you send.
11. Block one calendar gap and label it "Captain's bridge time."
12. Write one note in your second-brain inbox. Just one. Habit beats volume.
13. Re-tag one task that you mis-classified.
14. Sabbath. Drill off.

At Home

15. Send your wife one sentence of appreciation, drafted by you, polished by AI.
16. Ask Claude for 3 questions to ask your kid at dinner. Use one.
17. Do a 10-minute Scripture study with Claude as a study partner — you lead.
18. Pick a household chore. Automate the planning (not the doing).
19. Read your Family AI Policy aloud. Adjust one rule.
20. Tell your wife one thing you're learning in the bootcamp. Listen.
21. Sabbath. Drill off.

Business / Ministry

22. Draft one customer/community email using your saved prompt. Send it yourself.
23. Run your sermon-prep workflow on a passage you're not preaching.
24. List one task you'll never delegate to AI, and why.
25. Strip three AI-fingerprint phrases from something you wrote yesterday.
26. Ask Cowork to summarize your last 7 days. See what it missed.
27. Save one new prompt as a skill. Name it like a captain.
28. Sabbath. Drill off.

Mastery & Multiplication

29. Audit one subscription. Decide: keep, kill, downgrade.
30. Run one workflow you built earlier. Has it drifted? Fix it.
31. Find one logging gap in your system. Close it.
32. Ask AI to argue against your charter. Strengthen the weak points.
33. Teach one new person one thing. Watch them do it once.
34. Write the first sentence of your Captain's Charter. Just the first.
35. Sign your charter. Post the screenshot.
