

3 Questions for the Dinner Table

Ask one tonight. Listen. Don't fix.

Most dinner conversations die at "how was your day?" because the kid has already answered that 47 times this month. Today: three age-appropriate questions per child, generated, then deployed.

Action checklist

- Open Claude. Give it each kid's age and one thing they're into.
- Ask for 3 questions per child that go beyond surface — but aren't interrogations.
- Pick ONE per kid. Use one tonight.
- When they answer, don't correct. Don't redirect. Listen. Ask one follow-up.

CAPTAIN'S NOTE

A father who only asks about grades and chores becomes the manager of his home, not the dad of his children.

Scripture sit

Deuteronomy 6:6–7 — "You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house." The dinner table is the house.

What I noticed

Captain's next move
